Cemetery Requirements

Costs may include cemetery plot, opening and closing of grave, grave liner or vault, and memorial or marker.

Cemeteries usually require a minimum container/casket and some sort of protection to prevent the collapse of a grave after burial.

Options include earth burial, entombment (placement of a casket in a building called a mausoleum), or placement of cremated remains in a columbarium niche (a room or space in a mausoleum).

For each option offered, cemeteries may have specific requirements concerning type of memorial or marker and minimum casket or container requirements.

Check with the cemetery of your choice to determine its requirements and related costs.

Cremation Requirements

Cremation is performed by placing the deceased in a combustible casket or container, that in turn, is placed in a cremation chamber and subjected to intense heat/flame. Bone fragments and dust are brushed from the chamber after cremation; however, it is impossible to remove all of the cremated remains. Since some dust and residue always remain in the chamber, there may be an inadvertent or incidental commingling of residue from previous cremations. This also may occur as a result of mechanically processing cremated remains.

Cremations must be authorized by the County Medical Examiner to ensure that any evidence of criminal activity is not destroyed.

State law requires that within 15 days the authorizing agent sign a form authorizing cremation.

A legally competent adult may prepare a written statement directing the cremation or other lawful disposition of the legally competent adult's remains. This written statement may but need not be part of the competent adult's will.

The legally competent adult shall sign and date the document. The document shall be notarized or witnessed in writing by at least one adult affirming that the notary or witness was present when the competent adult signed and dated the document and that the competent adult appeared to be of sound mind and free from duress at the time of execution of the document.

The document of immunity authorizes a crematory, cemetery, or funeral establishment to carry out the wishes of a competent adult. It is not necessary for a crematory, cemetery, or funeral establishment to obtain the consent or concurrence of any other person when it cremates or provides for the lawful disposition of a dead human body.

The legally competent adult must provide financial arrangements so a crematory, cemetery and funeral establishment can execute the adult's wishes as expressed in the document.

If a dispute arises in a family and more than one person is legally entitled to make the disposition decision, a majority of those with the authority must consent to the cremation (example: majority of children or majority of siblings).

Unless arrangements are made with the funeral establishment, the authorizing agent is solely responsible for disposition of the cremated remains.

Cremated remains should be collected upon notice of availability. The crematory authority may dispose of the remains in a legal manner 120 days after the cremation or after the agreed upon pick-up date.

Cremated remains may be buried, entombed, placed in a niche, scattered over private land with permission of owner or over public property (may require permit), or remain in family's possession, usually in an urn (wood, marble, or metal container).

Filing Complaints

Before filing a complaint, you may want to resolve any differences by first contacting the responsible funeral director at the funeral establishment.

People who wish to file a complaint against an establishment, funeral director, embalmer or other persons regulated by Funeral Services Licensing should visit our website at www.azdhs.gov to complete an online complaint form. Please make sure to include the name of the decedent and the date of death in your documentation.

A searchable database listing licensing history, which may include deficiencies and/or enforcement actions can be found on our website at website at www.azdhs.gov

Funeral Arrangements

After death, funeral arrangements must be made by an "authorizing agent," even if prepaid.

Authorizing agents could be a spouse, someone identified in a healthcare power of attorney as having authority to make disposition arrangements, next of kin, or another responsible person as identified in A.R.S. § 36-831. Importantly, if a spouse was legally separated from the decedent or if a petition for divorce or legal separation was pending at the time of death, the spouse cannot be the authorizing agent.

If requested, funeral establishments must provide information regarding funeral costs by telephone, electronic means or by mail

State law requires the funeral establishment to provide you with:

- -Consumer Guide to Arizona Funeral Information (This Brochure)
- -General Price List before discussing funeral arrangements.
- -Casket Price List before entering a casket selection room, you also may be shown casket photographs or illustrations. Casket costs are separate from funeral service costs.
- -Outer Burial Container Price List before discussing purchase of outer burial containers from the establishment.

If you are an authorizing agent, you will be asked at the funeral arrangement to sign a contract called a Statement of Funeral Goods and Services, which lists your selections. Read the contract before signing.

Contracts include a professional fee and other itemized charges. Total charges vary widely, so you may wish to compare with other establishments.

NOTE: Funeral establishment services, fees, and quality vary so you may wish to visit several establishments before you sign the contract. Please make sure to SAVE YOUR CONTRACT and related documents!

Authorizing agents are entitled to an explanation of each charge on the contract. You may change your selections before you sign the contract, or you may go elsewhere.

Funeral establishments may charge in advance for certain items (cash advances) that they purchase from a third party on your behalf. These items may include cemetery or crematory charges, obituary notices, death certificates, flowers, clergy, musician honorarium, and funeral escorts. State law prohibits charging more than the actual cost for these items without informing you that there is a service or handling fee.

Autopsies

Can be elective or not depending on circumstances.

Hospitals may ask permission; County Medical Examiners do not need permission.

May result in an increased embalming fee.

Donation of the Body

Arrangements for donating a body to a medical school are usually made by an individual prior to death.

Embalming

Embalming is the implementation of reconstructive procedures and the process of disinfecting and preserving a dead human body to retard organic decomposition by treating the body to reduce the presence and growth of organisms.

Not required by state law if remains are refrigerated, cremated, or buried within 24 hours and the person has not died due to certain communicable diseases. If you select any of these services, you do not have to pay for embalming you did not approve. Note that funeral establishments are not required to have refrigeration.

You may have to pay for embalming if: it is required by law or provided for in the funeral establishment's policy. For example, you may have to pay if you select a service such as a viewing; you authorize it; or there are special circumstances.

Some cemeteries or mausoleums may require embalming for burial or entombment (placement of casket in a building called a mausoleum), but you may choose a cemetery that does not have this requirement. Embalming is usually required if the body is being shipped.

Caskets / Containers

Not required by state law for burial. A rigid, combustible container is required for cremation.

Crematories and cemeteries usually have their own minimum requirements.

A casket will not prevent the natural decomposition of a body.
